These outings have always had a tendency to produce sleep and rest and to increase the appetite for good rest in the midst of her sorrow and grief.

There was placed on the McKinley casket, vesterday, by Judge William R. Day a large floral wreath from the emperor of Russia. Judge Day received a telegram from Charge de Affaires De Wollante of the Russian embassy at Washington, requesting him to have this wreath placed on the casket of the late president. It is oval in shape and seven feet by six. It is composed, on one side, of American Beauty roses, and on the other side of orchids. The base is of Sago palms, the entire wreath being interspersed with small cocoa ferns, tied with orchid satin ribbon. The resting place of the late president was visited by thousands of people, yesterday, probably over twenty thousand persons entering the gates of Westlawn cemetery between the early hours of the morning and the late hours of the evening. The attractions were the floral tributes sent for the funeral which have been arranged on either side of the vault. They are still in a very good state of preservation, and probably will be for several days longer. The guard of regular soldiers patrolled a very wide circle around the vault and the flowers yesterday so that a long line could view the flowers at one time, and thus they prevented serious congestion. A number of beautiful flowers were three o'clock yesterday afternoon and also placed on the graves of the Mc-Kinley children, which are also protected by a patrol of soldiers. Many of the crowd wandered from the vault to the private lot, many also climbed the high knoll in the new cemetery. the prospective site of the permanent McKinley tomb monument, all agree-
